

CAVE DISCOVERY SHOWS ANCIENT ALABAMA LIFE

Russell Cave, a natural shelter in the northeastern corner of Alabama, displays ancient hunting gear and remnants of household wares which unfold 8,000 years of man's history. Uncovered only 13 years ago, this Bridgeport cave is now a national monument. Scientists already consider Russell one of the major archaeological finds of this century.

Indians lit their fires and lived in the cave over 4,000 years before the Great Pyramid of Egypt was built. For hundreds of generations these cave dwellers lived by hunting and gathering. They left behind the primitive tools of their trade which present day Alabamians use to trace the progress of civilization.

Chips of stone in the cave show that the Indians used the shelter to make weapon points which were the key to their survival. Long before bows and arrows were discovered, the Indians used a short spear, tipped with a stone point and propelled by a throwing stick to hunt deer, turkey and small game animals which abounded in the area.

The museum at Russell Cave depicts the changing styles of archaic weapon points. Early points were crude, blunt instruments. Those of a thousand years ago came to a sharper

Caldwell To Direct Selective Service System

Governor George C. Wallace has announced the appointment of Hugh J. Caldwell, Jr., of Montgomery, as Director of the Alabama Selective Service System.

Caldwell succeeds Glen Currie, named by Governor Wallace in January to be circuit judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit (Autauga, Chilton and Elmore Counties).

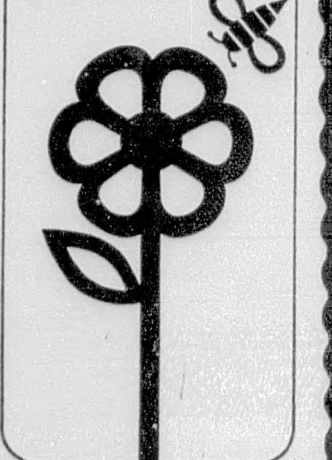

Caldwell, who was born in Montgomery, attended public schools in Trussville (Jefferson County), and Auburn University. In World War II, he was in the U.S. Navy for 16 months.

Owner of a Montgomery automobile agency, the new State Selective Service Director is married to the former Miss Mary Jane Mumma, of Trussville. They have four children.

A former president of the Montgomery Sales and Marketing Club, and a former director of the Red Cross, Caldwell has also been active in United Appeal work and other phases of Montgomery civic life.

Caldwell is a deacon and Sunday school teacher at Montgomery's Trinity Presbyterian Church.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Foreign Bodies

Watchful waiting is a medical procedure used in treating persons who have swallowed foreign bodies. One children's hospital made a study of 600 cases of ingested items such as pins, marbles, tacks, screws, buttons, and coins.

Records indicate that when left alone, the vast majority of the objects which have reached the stomach will pass through the body spontaneously. This natural passage is the more astonishing in cases where the foreign object swallowed is a large safety pin, a 3-inch long hat pin, or a 25-cent piece.

A foreign object swallowed is usually to be found in either of three regions: the esophagus or gullet, the stomach, or the large bowel. When articles are caught in the lower portion of the esophagus, an oily material is given by mouth in an attempt to help the foreign body pass into the stomach. Many patients with foreign bodies stuck in the esophagus must be given surgical treatment to remove the article. The majority of foreign bodies are in the stomach when first medically observed. Every hospital is familiar with cases where objects swallowed include bolts, bobby pins, nails, rings, keys, paper clips, lockets, whistles, and tiny toys. The time when the object remains in the stomach varies from a few hours to three to ten days. While there is always anxiety in cases of swallowed objects in the stomach, physicians familiar with the situation hold the opinion that usually it presents no immediate serious threat to the patient. Once the object is in the stomach, sufficient time is allowed by the physician for it to pass spontaneously.

New GI Bill Bears Certain Restrictions

Post-Korean veterans planning to take advantage of the educational provisions of the new GI Bill should bear in mind certain restrictions, VA officials said recently. The new bill does not permit apprenticeship courses and other on-the-job or on-the-farm training, such as were authorized under previous GI bills.

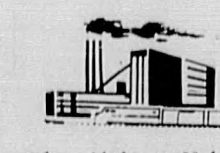

Flight training by itself alone will not be permitted. It will become authorized only when it is part of a complete college or university program leading to a definite degree. Veterans discharged from the Armed Forces after January 31, 1955, will be eligible to begin courses after June 1, 1966. Full information may be obtained in any VA office and in most colleges and educational centers after April 15, 1966. Cotton is grown in 19 states.

ABC Board Warning

Students About 'Shine'

County Included In New

District For Senate Seat

The Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has inaugurated an educational program for Alabama high school students. The program has two aims: to alert students to the inherent dangers of "moonshine" whiskey and to inform them of the new laws concerning minors and alcoholic beverages.

This new program describes the filthy conditions under which "moonshine" is often produced. The fact that "moonshiners" use creek and swamp water which is often polluted by sewage and other wastes is forcibly brought to the students' attention. The new laws specifically prohibit the minor having any dealing whatsoever with beverage alcohol and the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board is contacting as many students as possible before the end of the school term, to alert them of the law and to caution them concerning the effects a law violation can have on their future.

This program is now being made available to Alabama high schools, and interested principals, teachers and students should contact the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Board in Montgomery for further information and scheduling at their schools.

I URGE YOU to exercise your rights to vote Tuesday, May 3. If you are a Democrat and a qualified voter you are duty bound to cast a ballot for the person you think will do the best job. If you're a Republican it is up to you as to whether you vote in the Democratic Primary. When you cast a ballot Tuesday you will have pledged yourself to abide by the result of this Primary Election and to aid and support all the nominees thereof in the ensuing General Election. Many who will be voting Tuesday will not be adding by that pledge. But we didn't get very unhappy about the many Republicans who voted for George Wallace in Maryland and Wisconsin. In fact most of his votes were by Republicans but I have an idea that they cast a vote for the Republican nominee afterwards.

But that problem is up to you as individuals. If you want to vote I say by all means do so and if you change your mind in November and want to vote for a Republican that is your individual privilege. I'm not making any promises as to how I will vote in November but there is a great possibility that I will split my ticket, though I will "wait and see" what develops between now and then to make that decision. I was at one time a strong Democrat and wouldn't even think about splitting my ticket or to vote anything but Democrat. That is think we can go wrong.

THE BAND CONCERT presented by the Wildcat Band last Friday night was about the best I have ever heard. If you did not know that it was a high school band performing, you would not believe it was. They played far above the heads of the average high school band. There was only one thing wrong about it. The concert was too short. I could have listened to them perform much longer and would have enjoyed hearing them start over from the beginning. The Florida band has really been well trained which was clearly demonstrated Friday night, and of course, has been demonstrated all during the year.

Since the leader of this band is an Elba native I want to pass this report of a grand performance on to you. Frankie Ziglar, an Elba boy, who attended the Elba schools has been with the Florida band for several years and has done a marvelous job. His mother, Mrs. Spencer Ziglar, brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Ziglar, all of Elba, attended the concert and I know they returned to their home in Elba with a feeling of great pride for the accomplishment of this young man and the reception he received following the concert.

TALK ABOUT who to vote for Tuesday, I'm in a real spot. I want to vote for several candidates who are running for the same office and since those polling officials won't let us vote for but one I'm having my troubles. Just what do you do in such a situation. We have worked with most all candidates for County and district places and have learned to like everyone. I can't vote for one without the feeling that I am voting against someone I really like and that I think will do a good job for the place he or she seeks. I can't be happy to put the names in a hat and draw one because I have the feeling of not being faithful to the person left in the box. I wish I didn't like all the candidates so much.

I HAVE BEEN asked by several this past week who I was supporting for governor. I have not decided, if that makes anyone any happier. I really don't

IF YOU HAVEN'T VISITED MERTON'S ROSE GARDEN on the south side of Lake Jackson in Florida you are missing a treat. We visited his garden last week and enjoyed an hour just walking around the garden and enjoying every minute of it. He has a rose bed more than 200 feet in length which includes two rows of the bushes. Hundreds of roses were in bloom and the perfume in the air was magnificent. In his garden he also has a small lake and swimming around in the water or strolling around in the garden are large geese and ducks. Merton says they keep the grass picked out of his garden and I really saw them in action but they didn't attempt to pick any of the leaves off the rose bushes the azaleas or other shrubs.

During the azalea blooming season his garden was a beautiful sight with the many colors seen there. The tall dogwood was in full bloom and every color of azalea there was seen blooming. I can't say enough about this beautiful garden. A beautiful home is now being built there approximately 300 feet from the road, back among tall stately trees.

Merton has not developed a number of ladies from a neighboring town drove down just to see this garden and went away not believing that it was real. Merton could be so beautiful.

"AND THEN PRINCE CHARMING"

Do you remember the undivided attention you gave to a story-teller... when you first heard Cinderella, Snow White, or some gallant warrior bold? It seems so long ago. And yet, that attention reveals within ourselves more than dreams; it reveals a secret longing after mysteries, after the things we do not understand, but somehow love.

Religion, in a way, is somewhat like that. Everybody is religious! But, of course, everybody doesn't call it that! Nevertheless, there is in the heart of man a secret yearning, a wish, a hope for things eternal. We express those wishes in church.

And somehow God hears our wishes and consoles and explains. That is a very important part of the Church; for it is a place of consolation and understanding, a place where wishes (prayers) are heard, where the mysteries of life gain new meaning.

NINE OUT OF TEN CHILDREN CATCH MEASLES

But now they don't have to. Your physician can vaccinate them against measles, just as he does to prevent small pox. Measles is not a simple disease without problems. One out of every six children with measles develop out of a secondary bacterial infection such as a pneumonia or an ear infection. While these infections usually respond to a doctor's care, why allow cases develop encephalitis — an infection for which there is as yet no specific treatment. Since the conquest of polio, measles cause more deaths than any other common disease of childhood. If your child has not had measles, and has not yet been vaccinated against it, visit a physician soon.

... about your SOCIAL SECURITY ...

"As in years past, the Social Security Administration is ready, willing, and able to help you obtain proof of your age." This statement came recently from Mr. Harry N. Scott, social security district manager in Dothan. In answer to recent questions about his agency's proof of age requirements, Mr. Scott reported that several weeks ago social security offices all over the country started asking people for better proof of age.

"Social Security's proof of age requirements will not prevent anyone from qualifying for retirement benefits or medicare, and may actually enable a person to get benefits he didn't know about. We ask for a person's birth or baptismal record if he has one. If he does not have either of these, he should bring the best evidence he has. However, no one should delay applying for these benefits simply because he does not have proof of his age. Delay could mean loss of benefits."

"When a person applies, we will be happy to assist him in proving his age. Just visit the social security office in the Federal Building, 100 West Troy Street, Dothan, or phone us at 794-3161."

No Farm Work For Children During School

Dalton O. Blake, field office supervisor of the Montgomery office of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division, has pointed out that children under 16 years of age are not allowed to work on farms during school hours. "Children should be in school, not working in the fields," says Blake. "Education pays off. Figures show the high school graduate earns well over one-third more than the worker who never went beyond the eighth grade."

The 16-year age minimum for employment on farms is set by the Fair Labor Standards Act. It applies to work by both local and migrant youngsters in the school district where a child lives while employed. It does not apply to youngsters who work for their parents on the home farm.

He added that if State or local laws set higher standards, the higher standards prevail.

Additional information on the child-labor provisions of the Act may be obtained from the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division's office located in Room 413B, Post Office and Court House Building, Montgomery, Alabama.

THINK! ALABAMA! THINK!

PATTERSON SUCCESSFULLY DEFENDED YOUR CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS!

OUR RECKLESS MONTGOMERY LEADERSHIP HAS LOST THEM!

Hate, racial violence, turmoil and strife have marked Alabama during the past three years. We have lost our voice in national affairs, sacrificed the respect of our Southern neighbors and given up our friendships in Congress.

Today we are living under the shadow of Federal court decrees and punitive acts of Congress including the Civil Rights Bill of 1964 and the Voting Rights Bill of 1965.

The present administration has lost every battle, carried us from crisis to crisis, defeat to defeat and brought the wrath of a nation down on us.

Let's return to our winning ways. Let's join with John Patterson and defend our rights in a legal, dignified, constitutional, and common sense way. Let's have an administration that will maintain law and order, have peace between the races and a voice at the decision table. Let's move forward together!

Proven Man for a Man-Sized Job!

University Can Assist Students' Financial Needs

The University of Alabama, through Federally-supported programs, now has greatly increased capability to assist students who need some degree of financial assistance to attend college.

A package financial plan of over $2.1 million enables students to participate in any or all of three programs. These are educational opportunity grants-outright grants or "scholarships"; National Defense Education Act loans which may be repaid with three percent interest within ten years following college attendance; and a work-study program, providing employment for students within the University or in an eligible off-campus agency.

Applications for this financial assistance should be sent to the U. of A. Director of Financial Aids, P.O. Box 6244, University, Alabama. Deadline for application for educational opportunity grants and N.D.E.A. loans for both the summer term and the academic year beginning in the fall of 1966, is May 1, 1966. While there is no deadline for work-study applications, they should be submitted as soon as possible and preferably by the May 1, 1966, deadline.

Southeast Alabama Gas District Continues To Serve Efficiently

An eight-inch steel pipe, snaking across 12 miles of Alabama farmland, will soon be ready to deliver natural gas to Southeast Alabama's newest major industry, Southern Kraft Paper Company's big new mill now under construction on the Chattahoochee River near Cottonwood.

With the addition of the Southeast Alabama Gas District will maintain its record of serving virtually all of the area's major industries, and the District's key role in the development of this area will be re-emphasized.

According to all experts on area development, Natural Gas is one of the four or five resources absolutely essential to balanced industrial growth.

Before 1955, when the Gas District went into operation in 10 Southeast Alabama counties, there was no natural gas in the area. Today dozens of large and small industrial plants, together with scores of commercial establishments, rely absolutely on low-cost, efficient natural gas for plant heating and manufacturing operations. The range of industries served is almost limitless. The Gas District sells gas to a major steam generating plant for the production of electric power; to cotton gins for drying cotton; to a bicycle plant for oven-baking enamel; to brick yards for firing kilns; to a textile mill in a half-dozen cities; to cottonseed and peanut oil mills—to plants and industries of every type.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Official Cheating

IT IS now standard practice in at least a dozen New York City schools to upgrade the records of students on transcripts sent to colleges.

or to omit their failures to obtain passing grades. School officials admit that it is dishonest, but state that it is necessary in order to get young people into the city universities.

But if a student cannot make a passing grade in high school there is little hope that he will be able to do so in the university. If professors and school officials resort to usually dishonest practices, what can be expected of the students? If men and women will not be truthful, there is no hope of maintaining free government.

If public officials will not keep their promises to the electorate, there is no way of choosing the most capable men to administer public affairs. If witnesses will not tell the truth in the court room, juries and judges cannot administer justice among us.

We read of a senator who cheated at Harvard—of widespread cheating on grades at one of our military academies—and of a great lapse in standards of truthfulness. There is, moreover, widespread violation of biblical Commandments.

What has happened to our peaceful and law-abiding society? The youth of my generation were taught to believe in God and to respect and follow the teachings of the Bible. But it is no longer so, and moral law has grown dim in the conscience and mind of the American people, so that it no longer governs their actions.

But organized society cannot exist without discipline. If we are unwilling to discipline ourselves by voluntary loyalty to the moral law of God as set forth in the Bible, summarized in the Ten Commandments, a degree of chaos and lawlessness will come upon us that will make inevitable some sort of authoritarian regime. Then we will become the victims of a cruel police state. This has already happened to a large part of the world, and we are beginning to see the same thing in our own country.

We may fear God and keep His Commandments and thereby enjoy peace, self government and prosperity, or we shall become the terrorized victims of the tyrants in their efforts to impose some sort of man-made discipline upon men who have rebelled against the laws of God.

26,000 residential customers.

These home-owners discovered last January, put to its severest test during record cold weather, was ready, willing and able to deliver gas to every residential customer on its lines.

During 36 consecutive hours of below 15 degree temperatures, the District's hundreds of miles of transmission and distribution lines remained comfortably filled with gas, at pressures which never fell below 350 pounds.

"Sound engineering and planning paid off for us and for our residential customers," R. J. Cupidean Crook, Tom Smith, gas district general manager, said this week.

"This past heating season has been a record-breaker, with a solid heating load running up into April for the first time in many, many years," Smith said. "As a result, we have sold more gas by far since last November than in any similar period in our history."

"In spite of this heavy domestic load," Smith added, "we have kept our industrial interruptible customers supplied with all the gas they wanted just about all winter long. The Southeast Alabama Gas District has plenty of capacity for new industry. We welcome new plants anywhere in our service area."

FARM NEWS

By Tom Casaday, County Extension Chairman

NITROGEN FOR CORN
Plant spacing and rate of nitrogen fertilization are two of the most important management factors in corn production. Since each of these factors affects the other, good management calls for matching rate of nitrogen to drill spacing used.

Results of the tests reported emphasize that high nitrogen rates must be combined with close spacing for profitable returns. Best yields are made with 9-to-12-in. drill spacing. Coffee County farmers should use approximately 100 pounds of nitrogen as a side dressing if a good stand is up.

PASTURE TOUR
Extension Farm Agent, J. R. Speed, and I are planning a pasture tour in the Elba area in June. One cattle grower has agreed to use different rates of nitrogen on several plots in his pasture so that those taking part in the tour can see the difference in growth.

I plan to keep the county growers posted on this meeting which will be held sometime in June. Several growers have requested that we plan and conduct tours showing good pasture management practices.

GRADED HOG SHOW
Plans are being developed for holding a Graded Hog Show in the county this year similar to the one held last August at the Farmers Livestock Barn in Elba. Several hog growers expressed a keen interest in having another Graded Hog Show and Sale again this year.

4-H HOG SHOW AND SALE
Plans are being made to hold a 4-H Hog Show and Sale in conjunction with the Graded Hog Show in August. Over 100 4-H Club boys and girls have hogs as part of their 4-H project work. We believe that these young people can receive good training and a worthwhile experience by participating in the Coffee County 4-H Club Hog Show and Sale.

4-H PEANUT PROJECTS
Fifteen Coffee County 4-H Club members are carrying out peanut production demonstrations. These young 4-H'ers will carry out all recommended practices. They have soil tested, they are planting peanuts in rotation with other crops, they are planting the Early Runner varieties, and most will use chemical weed control. Later in the season they

HOME AGENTS ASSOCIATION MEETING
I attended the home agents' association meeting which was held in Birmingham last week. The meeting was very inspirational and informative.

KEEPING HONEY
We have many people in our county who love honey. Often I am asked if honey which has turned dark is still good. Honey which has darkened or crystallized as it gets older is perfectly alright to eat.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

ASTHMA & HAY FEVER

Asthma and hay fever are high on the list of disabling diseases, with an estimated three and a half million sufferers. Allergic diseases are seldom fatal; but they do cause much discomfort and interfere with work, sleep, appetite and recreation. One in ten persons is allergic to something, and this something is often an allergen. It may be food, pollens, house dust, fur, feathers, dyes, medicine, and even cold, heat, and sunlight.

Allergy is believed to be hereditary to some degree, for people with allergies come from families where the parents or other close relatives have had some form of allergic manifestation. While people do not inherit a specific allergic disease such as hay fever, they may inherit a tendency to become sensitive to certain things. Allergens gain access to the body by being swallowed or inhaled, by coming in contact with the skin, or by injection. Hay fever is an inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages, with sneezing, watery discharge from the nose, redness and itching of the eyes and sometimes of the face.

Asthma is a disease of the bronchial tubes of the lungs that causes wheezing and frequently severe attacks of labored breathing. Food allergies affect the skin, digestive tract or respiratory system and are caused by sensitivity to certain foods. Skin allergies causing itching or possible eruptions that ooze, crust and scale may be due to contact of some particular substance with the skin.

Treatment includes seeking out the offending substance and avoiding it and medical care for relief and protection against further allergic illness. Desensitization is medically possible in many instances of allergic sensitivity.

plant nutrients soon after blooming to keep them healthy. The best fertilizer is one such as 8-8-8.

FLOWERING ANNUALS

If you want flowers in bloom from early spring until fall, plant some early blooming annuals and some that bloom later in the season up until frost.

As a general rule, sow seed outside after the last killing frost. Seeds may rot before they germinate if planted while the soil is too cold (below 60 F.). Exceptions, which can be planted in early spring are: baby's breath, cornflower, poppy, phlox, stock, strawflower, summer cypress, sweet alyssum and sweet pea.

Start seed indoors no sooner than 8 weeks before the danger of killing frost is over, otherwise plants may get too big for successful transplanting. Instead of growing your own plants indoors you may wish to buy seedlings from a nursery.

When seedlings have developed two true leaves, it's time to transplant. Dig deeply under seedlings and lift them from the container. Separate them, and transplant individually.

SPRING CLEANING

An important part of spring cleaning chores is packing and storing winter garments. How this job is done determines their condition next fall. The garments should be carefully cleaned, sunned and brushed to rid the clothes of moths.

Several chemicals are available for pre-storage treatments including D-T, Methoxychlor, Strobane and Perthane. These must be used with care. The traditional moth ball will control moths, too.

Associate County Extension Chairman, Sara E. Hutchinson, warns homemakers not to use plastic hangers and to remove all plastic from the clothes such as buttons, buckles and ornaments. This prevents the plastic from staining or melting into the garments.

Weight watchers will be interested to know that dairy foods, while they furnish so much in the way of needed nutrients, account for only one-sixth of the food energy in the nation's diet.
